Sentencing Guidelines and Statutory Maximums in Florida: How Best to

Have you ever wished . . .

Have you ever wished that you could sit down and talk in complete confidence with someone about your law practice—someone whose drinking or drug problem may have been worse than yours; someone who can tell you what drinking/use of drugs did to his or her practice, family and health? Or perhaps just someone to listen with an understanding heart rather than with judgment and condemnation? Have you ever thought what a relief it would be, without any cost whatsoever, to be able to talk frankly with just such a person—a person who is solving problems just like yours and is living happily and usefully in so doing?

Now you can. Florida Lawyers Assistance, Inc.

The Florida Bar Journal Legal Articles Guidelines

The primary purpose of articles and columns is to educate or inform the reader on issues of substantive law and practical concern to lawyers.

Analysis, opinion, and criticism of the present state of the law also are encouraged and should be clearly identified by sufficient legal authority on all sides of an issue to enable the reader to assess the validity of the opinion. Where criticism is voiced, suggestions for reform should also be included. Criticism should be directed to issues only.

Articles submitted for possible publication should be typed on 8 & 1/2 by 11 inch paper, double-spaced with one-inch margins. Only completed articles will be considered.

Citations should be consistent with the Uniform System of Citation. Footnotes must be concise and placed at the end of the article. Excessive footnotes are discouraged.

Lead articles may not be longer than 18 pages, including footnotes, and will be reviewed by members of The Florida Bar Journal Editorial Board. The board, which is composed of lawyers practicing various areas of law, has discretion over the acceptability of legal articles.

The board prefers not to review articles submitted simultaneously to other publications and requests notification from the author that the article or any version of it has ever been published or is pending publication in another periodical.

Review is usually completed in six weeks.

Columns may be submitted directly to section column editors. Length of columns is 12 pages including footnotes.

Unsolicited manuscripts are invited and may be submitted to Editor, The Florida Bar Journal, 650 Apalachee Parkway, Tallahassee, Florida 32399-2300.
